

Autobytel Inc. Receives Innovative Product Honor at AEA High-Tech Awards 2005

Revolutionary RPM 2.0 Helps Auto Dealers Achieve Customer Retention Goals

IRVINE, CA, April 25, 2005 – The Orange County Council of AeA celebrated the twelfth anniversary of its annual High-Tech Awards and honored Autobytel Inc. (Nasdaq: ABTLE) with the Innovative Product/Technology Award. RPM 2.0 integrates advanced customer segmentation with personalized communications across multiple channels, including e-mail, telephone, Web sites and print media. The AeA High-Tech Awards honor outstanding technology companies and acknowledge individual contributions to the high-tech business community.

Launched in 2004, RPM 2.0 is an essential tool for auto dealers to quickly and cost-effectively reach out to, and draw in customers for ongoing vehicle maintenance and service. RPM 2.0 automatically segments each set of customer data based on spending, purchase and visitation habits. As a result, customers receive discounts and communications relevant to their needs, such as customized service reminders based on mileage and time parameters.

"Since Autobytel invented online car buying in 1995, the company has continuously developed new tools and services that help its customers improve their businesses," said Phil Beaudoin, executive director, AeA OC Council. "Autobytel's innovation and leadership within the automotive industry represents the very best of Orange County's premier high tech business community."

"We are pleased that AeA has recognized the value RPM brings to the market," said Autobytel Inc. President and CEO Jeffrey Schwartz. "Our team of innovators is dedicated to providing cutting-edge tools and services for our customers, and this award is a testament to their ability to create tools that solve the most pressing problems in the automotive industry today."

This award for Innovative Product/Technology celebrates AeA's continuing recognition of Autobytel's unique contribution to the technology industry.

The High-Tech Awards 2005 were sponsored by Deloitte; Marsh, Fragomen, Del Rey, Bernsen & Loewy; Silicon Valley Bank; and Stradling Yocca Carlson & Rauth. Public relations support was provided by Lages & Associates. The High-Tech Awards 2005 event was produced by Show Staffers.
